

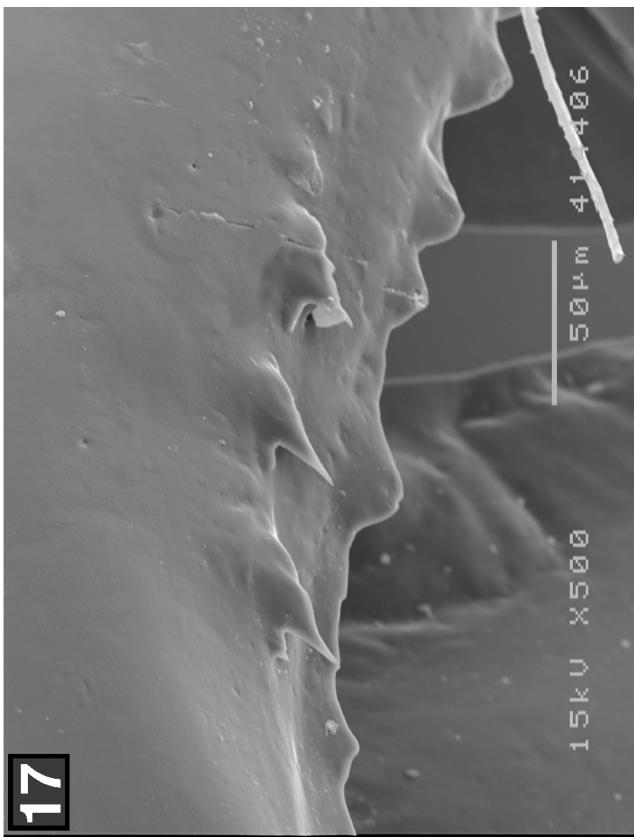

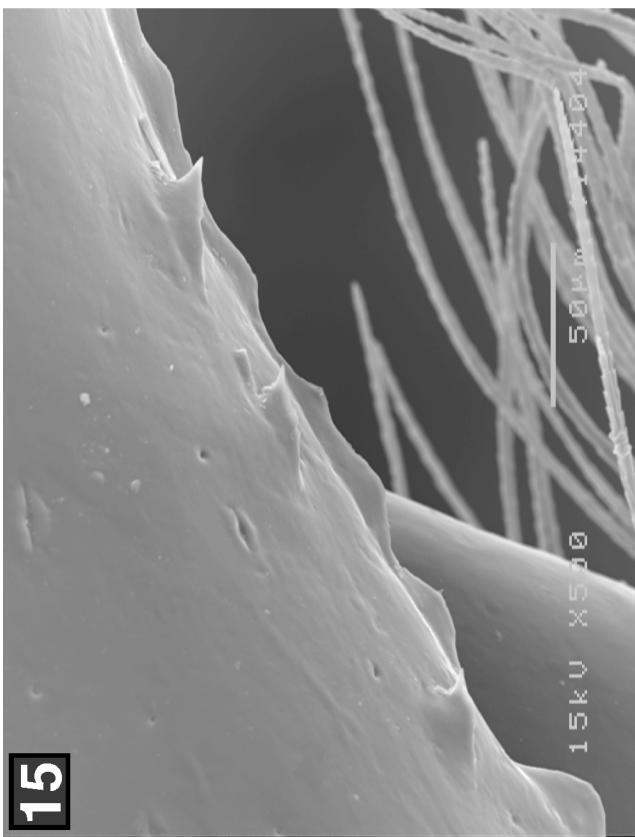

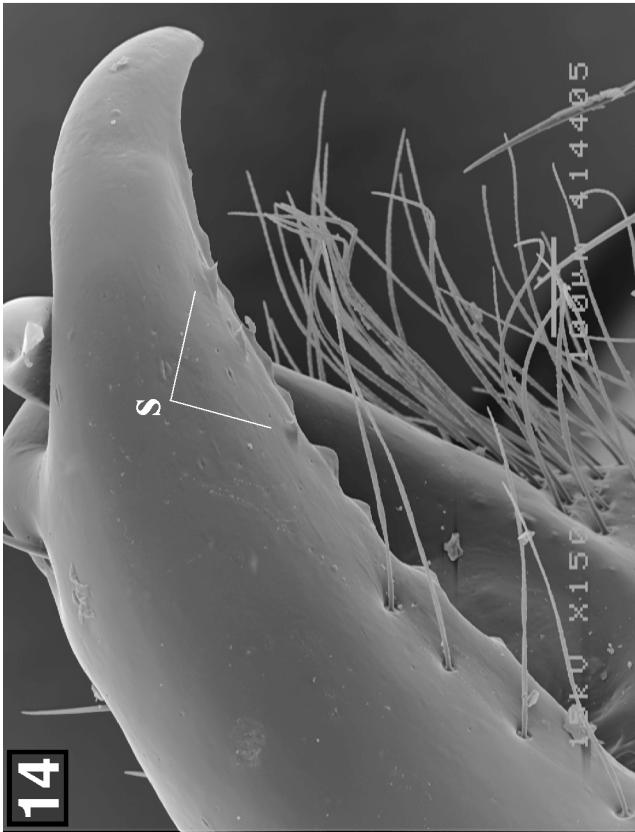

Figures 10–13: Cheliceral movable finger, ventral view, showing serrula in Paruroctonus arnaudi, male, El Socorro, Baja California, Mexico. 10–12. Shows successive closeups of serrula on left chelicera with five times. Note that serrula occurs distally in line with the row of setal brush. 13. External view of right chelicera showing profile of distal serrula at base of distal denticle; “S” indicates serrula.

Figures 14–17: Cheliceral movable finger, ventral view, showing serrula in Paruroctonus becki, female, San Bernardino Co., California, USA. 14 & 15. Shows successive closeups of serrula on right chelicera with three times. Note that serrula occurs distally in line with the row of setal brush. 16 & 17. Shows successive closeups of serrula on left chelicera with three times; "s" indicates serrula.